

Jevreji na tlu Jugoslavije
Jews in Yugoslavia

14. IV – 5. VI. 1988.

Poglavlja izložbe

1.

Ponajprije je iscrpnim podacima označenim i ubilježenim na karti Jugoslavije – pravci doseljenja Židova (orientalni, Sefardi, Aškenazi); arheološki lokaliteti (ostaci sinagoga i židovskih nekropola); gradovi u kojima su postojala geta i jevrejske mahale; židovske općine (sefardske, aškenanske, ortodoksne) i broj njihovih članova uoči rata i danas – imenovana izložba Židovi na tlu Jugoslavije, zatrtani joj kronološki okviri (od antičkih vremena do danas), naviješten daljnji tijek i obje – sefardska i aškenaska – komponente i tako dat informativan i pregledan uvod u izložbu.

2.

Tragom arheoloških nalaza kronološkim slijedom (II. i III. st., III/IV. st., IV. st., VIII. st.) iščitava se i očitava ime naroda jevrejskog (Poliharmov stub, Stobi; nadgrobna ploča židovskog trgovca, Senia – Senj), naslućuje njihova prisutnost (grobница с јеврејским симболима, Doclea – Duklja) i posvjeđujući njihova nazočnost (fragment mramorne ploče sa zapisom o obnovi prozeuge, Mursa – Osijek; fragment sarkofaga, privjesak u uljanice, Salona – Solin; uljanice, Andentrium – Muć) i odgoneta njihovo nastavanje (ostaci ranosrednjovjekovne nekropole Čelarevo, nadomak Novog Sada).

3.

Geta – dijelovi gradova u kojima su u dijaspori prinudno živjeli Jevreji izolirani od ostalog stanovništva (primjerice Via del Ghetto u Dubrovniku) i mahale – jevrejska naselja u gradovima pod turskom vlašću (primjerice Sijavuš-pašina daira, Velika avlja ili Kurtižiko u Sarajevu; jevrejska mahala La kaleže u Bitoli) ucrtni u planove gradova, te nazivlje gradskih četvrti, ulica i trgova, koje – zadržavši prijevke Žudioski, Židovski, Jevrejski – još uvijek pamti nekoćnu gustu naseljenost Jevreja.

4.

Prikaz jevrejskih groblja – Staro jevrejsko groblje na Kovačićima u Sarajevu; Staro židovsko groblje na Marjanu u Splitu; Židovsko groblje na Boninovu u Dubrovniku; Staro jevrejsko groblje u Bitoli i Nišu (s – oblikom i ornamentima – jedinstvenim spomenicima); Jevrejsko groblje Sepolcri hebrecci u Beogradu, Aškenasko groblje u Novom Sadu; Židovsko groblje u Karlovcu i na Mirogoju u Zagrebu – i nadgrobnih spomenika s tih groblja: tradicionalni sefardski nadgrobnjaci (jednostavna horizontalna nadgrobna ploča ili prazan sarkofag nad grobom s uklesanim hebrejskim natpisom po uzoru na nadgrobnjake u Španjolskoj) i stari aškenaski nadgrobnjaci (vertikalna kamena stela) te nadgrobnjaci – zidani i u obliku obeliska – nastali pod kršćanskim utjecajem.

5.

Sinagogalna arhitektura – pobrojane su i datirane sinagoge, počam od najstarijih (Dubrovnik, Split; druga polovica XIV. st.), uključujući sinagoge podignute u turskom razdoblju (El kal vježo, Sarajevo) do sinagoga sagradenih u drugoj polovici XIX. st. i na razmeđu XIX. i XX. st. te tijekom prvih mu desetljeća (Zagreb, Rijeka, Subotica, Novi Sad, Osijek, Vukovar, Vinovci, Zrenjanin, Sarajevo, Sisak, Kikinda, Zenica, Nova Gradiška...) koje obilježuju neostilovi (neoklasicizam, neoromanika, neogotika, neobarok i, konačno, neomaurski stil koji je najbliži jevrejskoj težnji orientalnome kao izrazu nacionalnoga) te imenovani njihovi graditelji (ahr. Leopold Baumann, specijaliziran za gradnju sinagoga; Franjo Klein, Rudolf Lubinsky, Karlo Paržik, E. Lederer, Theodor Stern, Ljudevit Schöne, P. Petrović) i graditeljski parovi (Hönigsberg i Deutsch; Deže Jakab i Marcel Komor, peštanski arhitekti). K tome, prikazani su detalji sinagoga – pročelja i unutrašnjost – projekti i građevne povelje uzidane u temelje; ostaci nakon rušenja (ploče) te nazivljem sinagoga (Kal kadoš Aragon i Kal kadoš Portugal u Bitoli) evocirani iberski sefardski zavičaji i naglašena bogoslužna namjena (El kal di Bilava – »Hram na Bjelavama« ili Bet tefila – »Kuća molitve« u Sarajevu), dat uvid u posvećenje sinagoga, njihovo rušenje (Beit Israel,

Guide to the Exhibition

The Map of Yugoslavia serves as a general introduction to the exhibition Jews in Yugoslavia. It shows the routes followed by incoming Jewish settlers (Oriental, Sephardic, Ashkenazic); archeological sites (remains of synagogues and Jewish burial grounds), towns with ghettos and mahalas (Jewish quarters), Jewish religious communities (Sephardic, Ashkenazic and Orthodox) and the size of their membership before World War II and today. Chronologically it covers a time span from antiquity to the present day and presents both the Sephardi and the Ashkenazi components.

2.

Archeological discoveries in chronological order (2/3c, 3c, 4c, 8c) show Jewish names on Polycharm's column at Stobi, and on the tombstone of a Jewish merchant at Senia – Senj; their presence is intimated by a grave with Hebrew symbols at Doclea – Duklja, and confirmed on a fragment of a marble slab with an inscription about the renovation of the proseucha at Mursa – Osijek; a fragment from a sarcophagus, a pendant and an oil-lamp at Salona – Solin, oil-lamps at Andentrium – Muć, testify to Jewish settlements (remains of early medieval burial sites at Čelarevo near Novi Sad).

3.

Ghettos were parts of towns in which the Jews in the Diaspora were compelled to live, isolated from the rest of the population (for instance Via del Ghetto in Dubrovnik). Mahalas were corresponding Jewish quarters in cities under Turkish rule (e.g. Siyavush Pasha's Daira, Velika Avlja »the great gate« or Kurtižiko in Sarajevo; the Jewish mahala La Kaleže at Bitola) and were marked on city maps. A Jewish address-book provides the names of parts of cities, streets and squares, which retained such attributes as Žudioski, Židovski, Jevrejski – all meaning »Jewish« and commemorate once dense Jewish settlements.

4.

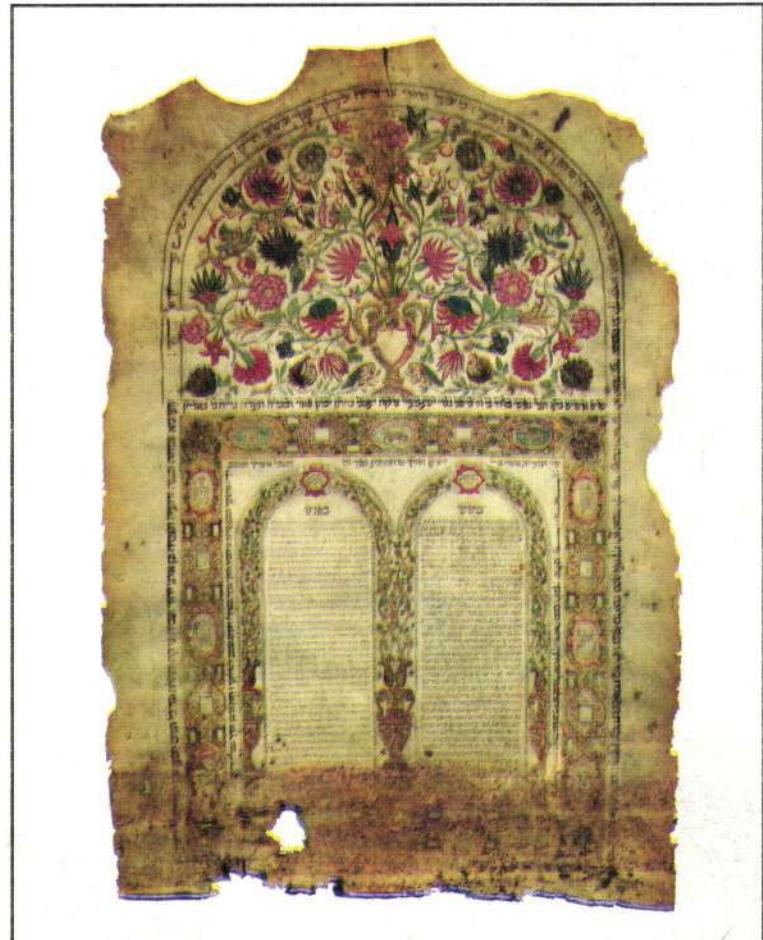

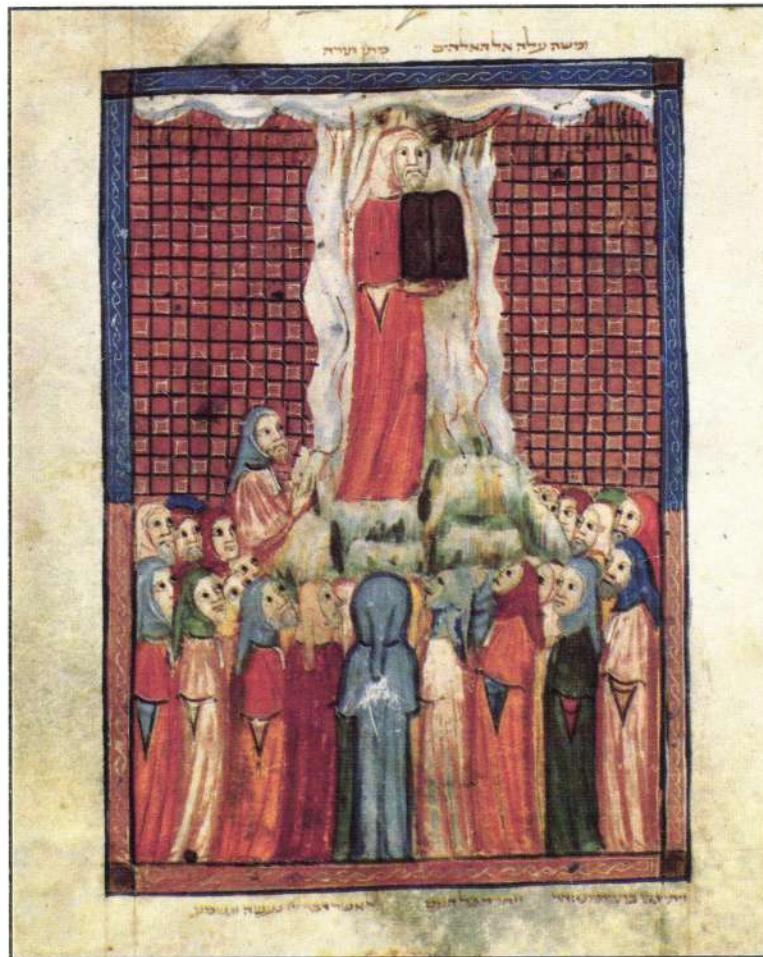

Jewish cemeteries. There are old Jewish graveyards at Kovačići in Sarajevo, on Marjan hill in Split, at Boninovo in Dubrovnik, and in Niš which has tombstones unique in shape and ornamentation. The Sepolcri hebrayci in Belgrade, the Ashkenazi cemetery in Novi Sad and the Jewish cemetery in Zagreb, have tombstones some of which are traditional Sephardic with a simple horizontal stone slab or an empty sarcophagus above the grave with carved Hebrew inscriptions modelled after tombstones in Spain, or are old Ashkenazi tombstones with upright stone stelae, or tombstones constructed in the shape of obelisks under Christian influence.

5.

Synagogue architecture: there are lists and dates of synagogues from the oldest in Dubrovnik and Split (14c) to those of the Turkish period (Eli Kal vježo in Sarajevo) and synagogues built in the second half of the 19c or at the turn of the century (Zagreb, Rijeka, Subotica, Novi Sad, Osijek, Vukovar, Vinkovci, Zrenjanin, Sarajevo, Sisak, Kikinda, Zenica, Nova Gradiška). These later ones are characterized by styles such as neo-Romanesque, neo-Gothic, neo-Baroque and finally neo-Moorish, which comes closest to the Jewish yearning after the Oriental as an expression of national identity. They were designed by architects such as Leopold Baumhorn, who specialized in synagogue architecture, Franjo Klein, Rudolf Lubensky, Karlo Paržik, E. Lederer, Theodor Stern, Ljudevit Schöne, and the firms Hönigsberg and Deutsch, Deže Jakob and Marcel Komor of Budapest. Details of the synagogues are also shown: facades and interiors; construction inscriptions built into the foundations and remains after destruction (slabs). The names of the synagogues (Kal Kadoš Aragon and Kal Kadoš Portugal at Bitola) in many cases are reminders of the Iberian Sephardic homeland and emphasize the purpose of worship (*Il Kal di Bila*va – »the Temple at Bjelava« or Bet Tephillah »the House of Prayer« in Sarajevo). Some exhibits show the consecration of the synagogues, their destruction (Beit Israel in Belgrade), or their re-allocation as in Il Kal Gran-

Special events

– Music in Ancient Israel is an exhibition coming from the Haifa Music Museum. It shows musical instruments of old times, the lyre, harp, shofar (the ritual horn) and their presentations on ancient mosaics, coins and seals. The exhibits were reconstructed on the basis of iconographic and archeological data, old documents and explorations with modern techniques. A large team of experts was faced with many problems concerning the structure of the material, the size and sound, and a variety of experiments had to be undertaken before proper results could be achieved.

– Painting, sculpture and applied art are displayed in an exhibition by contemporary Yugoslav Jewish artists.

MUZEJSKI PROSTOR

Zagreb, Jezuitski trg 4
Tel.: 278-957 – Telex 22398 MTM ZG YU

Gradnja jezuitskog kolegija započeta u prvoj polovici 17. stoljeća trajala je u etapama do drugog desetljeća 18. stoljeća. Nakon ukinuća jezuitskog reda 1773. godine od pape Klementa XVI., zgrada postaje vojni objekt, a potom služi kao sjedište raznih administrativnih ustanova. Ante Topić Mimara 1972. godine odabire zgradu za pohranjivanje i izlaganje svoje zbirke umjetnina darovane hrvatskom narodu, pa se ona preuređuje u izložbeni prostor.

Javnosti je otvorena 15. ožujka 1982. godine, izložbom grafika Albrechta Dürera, Dušana Džamonje i retrospektivom slikara Otona Glihe, nakon čega su uslijedile velike izložbe: Riznica zagrebačke katedrale, Ivan Meštrović, 100 godina Strossmayerove galerije, Drevna kineska kultura, Mimara-Kineska umjetnost, 2000 godina nigerijske umjetnosti, Srednjovjekovna umjetnost Srba, Pisana riječ u Hrvatskoj, S poštovanjem Titu, U susret muzeju suvremene umjetnosti, Kyôto-cvijet kulture Japana i u toku 1987. godine: Blaž Jurjev Trogiranin, Emanuel Vidović, Zlatno doba Dubrovnika, Ikone Makedonije, Antički portret na tlu Jugoslavije, Svjetski majstori moderne umjetnosti iz jugoslavenskih kolekcija i Drevna kineska kultura 2.

Zgrada Gradec, u neposrednoj blizini Muzejskog prostora, javnosti je otvorena 4. listopada 1984. godine izložbom: Prvi svjetski triennale male keramike a u jesen 1987. godine izložbom Prijetao na Griču.

Program za 1988. god. započeo je izložbom Svjetski majstori iz riznice Ermitaža.

The construction of the Jesuit monastery began in the first decade of the 17 c and continued through various stages until the second decade of the 18 c. After the Emperor Joseph II suppressed the Jesuit Order, the building was first used by the army, then by various administrative bodies. In 1972 Ante Topić Mimara chose it as the place of exhibition for the art collection he donated to the Croatian people. This led to its adaptation into an art gallery.

The building was opened to the public on March 15, 1982 with exhibitions of Albrecht Dürer's prints, the works of the sculptor Dušan Džamonja, and a retrospective exhibition of the painter Oton Gliha. After these came the following important exhibitions: Zagreb Cathedral Treasury, Ivan Meštrović, One Hundred Years of the Strossmayer Gallery, Ancient Chinese Culture, Ante Topić Mimara Collection-Chinese Art, Treasures of Ancient Nigeria-Legacy of 2000 Years, Serbian Medieval Art, The Written Word in Croatia, For Tito-With Respect, Towards a Museum of Contemporary Art, Kyôto-Flower of Japanese Culture, and during 1987: Blaž Jurjev Trogiranin, Emanuel Vidović, The Golden Age of Dubrovnik, Icons from Macedonia, Classical Portraits in Yugoslavia, World Masters of Modern Art from Yugoslav Collections, Ancient Chinese Culture 2.

The Gradec-building, in the vicinity of Muzejski prostor, was opened to the public on October 4. 1984, with the exhibition: first World Triennial Exhibition of Small Ceramics, and in the autumn of 1987 with the exhibition: Roster on Grič.

The 1988 events began with an exhibition of World Masters from the Eremitage Treasury.
